

Sehri Nur Güler was born in Çankırı, Turkey. She is an electrical and electronic engineer, and she has been working on transmission system operator of Turkey since 2019. She received B.Sc. degree in 2016 and she is currently a master student in Ankara Yildirim Beyazit University, Ankara. Her main research interests are electrical power quality, the effects of new network connections on power quality, and power system event indexing.