

Paper ID: 27

Paper Title: Quantifying Potential Power Savings from Household Appliance Consumption Data: A Methodological Approach and Estimated Results

Dr. Harriet Nyanchama Ocharo has been a researcher since 2019, in the Data Science Lab at Hitachi Research & Development in Tokyo, Japan. She has worked on various machine learning solutions for anomaly detection systems for manufacturing and data analytics solutions for power systems.